President's Report

January and February have been busy months for the Board, with our new members coming to understand this long-lived organization and work together to create a vision for the upcoming months.

Working with local art clubs in each Zone, our three Zone reps and our Exhibition Chair have confirmed the location and dates of each Zone Show, as well as the Alberta Wide Event and the Alberta Spirit Show.

The Redwater Art Club will be hosting the North Zone Show this year and I look forward to being there for their event on Mother's Day weekend, May 12 - 14th.

The Central Zone Show will be hosted by the City of Camrose, also on Mother's Day weekend. I am planning to make the loop between these two places throughout the weekend and enjoy an entire weekend filled with things I love.

The South Zone Show will be held in the Tabor Legion Hall and will be hosted by the Oldman River Art Club, from nearby Barnwell, on June 9 - 11th. I am looking forward to being back on the art trail and taking in these shows that I have missed so much!

The Alberta Wide Event will again be held in Camrose, and the Alberta Spirit Show is being held in Red Deer. These will be at the same venues as last year. It is great for the ACACA when these venues want to negotiate and hold the shows for two years or more before being moved to another location. This saves us a lot of work and more time to organize the locations moving forward. We have been fortunate over the last several years to have more venues wanting to host these events and have been able to move them around a little.

Due to some Art Club AGM timeline issues this year, that didn't work with our timeline and new clubs coming on board, it has been decided that we will offer an extension of the ACACA Membership Deadline this year. We have done this in order for the clubs hosting our Zone Shows some time to inform their members and make decisions. This extension will be until March 25th, for everyone to get their Individual Memberships Applications in to the ACACA. Only paid individual members are eligible to enter their artwork in the Zone Shows. Specific information can be found in this Newsletter.

For our Zone Hosts Clubs and Zone Reps the real work is just beginning. As well, our Jury Selector is already hard at work contacting and securing the accomplished artists that will judge our shows and offer the much-needed critiques that help us move our art forward. A great deal of hard work goes into creating these wonderful opportunities, and without all the enthusiasm and effort, these shows and ACACA could not exist.

I look forward to an exciting Show Season and can't wait to see all the pieces you have all created!

ARTIST STATEMENT

Art is like breathing to me. I look at the world around me and see it in everything. Colour, shapes and inspiration; it never ends. The best thing about art is having someone look at your work and for them to be moved in some way; that is what art is all about.

I am currently a member of the Pastel Artists of Canada, Federation of Canadian Artists, Art Society of Strathcona County and of course the ACACA. I hope to contribute to the ACACA so that this wonderful organization can grow and also move forward. I would encourage members to partake in the up coming shows in their zones. This is a wonderful organization to help you on your artistic journey.

CREATIVITY AND FLOW

HOW DOES CREATIVITY FEEL FOR YOU?

Do the following words capture your feelings while being creative: satisfying, joyful, energizing, freeing, stimulating, flowing, encouraging, fulfilling, and thought-provoking? Or, do the following thoughts capture your reality of creativity; a long, dull process of attention, processing, and synthesis?

Or, is it a mix of feelings? At what part of the creative process do these feelings need attention, or do you just go with the flow? There are no wrong answers.

According to a variety of creativity theorists, there are a few stages we experience such as incubation or brainstorming, illumination, and investigation, composition, clarification, changes, evaluation, verification, completion. Psychologist of intelligence and human development Robert Sternberg has proposed that creativity has five components: expertise, imaginative thinking skills; a venturesome personality; intrinsic motivation; and a creative environment that sparks, supports, and refines creative ideas.

Do the ideas of these theorists resonate with you? Again, there are no wrong answers.

The one state, not mentioned in Sternberg's repertoire, and that resonates with me is flow. Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi explained it, flow is "a state in which people are so involved in an activity that nothing else seems to matter; the experience is so enjoyable that people will continue to do it even at great cost, for the sheer sake of doing it."

Flow can be experienced in sports, cooking, science, research, the arts, walking the dog, and numerous other adventures. It is not important that one stops to analyze how they are feeling or thinking in the creative moments, however, it is interesting to know that flow occurs. According to Csikszentmihalyi, you might experience some of the following characteristics of flow:

1. Complete concentration on the task;
2. Clarity of goals and reward in mind and immediate feedback;
3. Transformation of time (speeding up/slowing down);
4. The experience is intrinsically rewarding;
5. Effortlessness and ease;
6. There is a balance between challenge and skills;
7. Actions and awareness are merged, losing self-conscious rumination;
8. There is a feeling of control over the task.

Currently, as an educator in post-secondary, I often hear from my students that they do not believe they are creative. This occurs because students are stuck in the traditional notion of the 'arts' such as musicians, performers, artists, and so on. When I share the beauty of creativity in all of the sciences, technologies, business, and construction, it opens their perspectives on their own creative endeavors.

I do enjoy reading their notes upon understanding and learning about their newfound creativity. They can now identify the sense of flow within their learning, which opens the door to connecting and synthesizing, which further opens the door to new ideas.

Opening the door to new ideas is the gift that I have received by joining the Edmonton Art Club. Rather than being alone with my artwork, I feel the enrichment of an arts community. For me, this proves we can keep on learning, exploring, expanding, and flowing.

Vice President ACACA*

We appreciate the support of the Alberta Foundation of the Arts (AFA).

The AFA exists to encourage and support the arts as a significant contributor to quality of life in Alberta.

The AFA is a public agency and a provincial corporation of the Government of Alberta with a mandate to support and contribute to the development of the arts in Alberta. They provide grant funding to artists and art organizations to encourage the growth and development of the arts sector. They also promote the arts and manage an extensive provincial art collection featuring work from artists all over the province.

The AFA reports to Alberta's Minister of Culture, Multiculturalism and Status of Women and is guided by the objectives found in the Alberta Foundation for the Arts Act, 1991.
